The criterion

AC9S6I03 — use of equipment for the generation and recording of data with appropriate precision. Judged here, at the bench, because it does not survive into a write-up.

A	purposeful generation and recording with appropriate precision — reads and records correctly unprompted, writes down the unexpected as it happens, precision matches the instrument
B	informed generation and recording with appropriate precision — accurate throughout, occasional inconsistency in precision or in recording the unexpected
C	generation and recording with appropriate precision — equipment used correctly, data recorded to the precision the instrument allows
D	generation and recording of data — records, but precision inconsistent, or reconstructs readings afterwards
E	directed generation and recording of data — only when directed step by step

Four things to watch

Safety statement Hazards from THIS method, not generic
Method followed Matches the approved plan
Recorded at the bench As it happened, not reconstructed
Response to a problem What did they do when it went wrong?
